

WANTED:

INTERNATIONAL COMMUNITY & SOCIAL MEDIA MANAGER (F/M)

The early bird... starts working for Testbirds!

Since 2011 Testbirds has been a pioneer in the crowd- and cloud based testing of apps, web applications, wearables and Internet of Things applications. With the support of 85 employees and 200,000 testers globally we are successfully conquering this rapidly growing international market. If you are looking for an exciting start-up environment, this job is for you!

Your Tasks

- We will hand over the responsibility for our international tester community to you, so you can manage our Nest
- To recruit new testers you will develop a strategy to grow our Nest in key international regions
- Your passion for communication will make it easy for you to activate and engage the Testbirds community; you can use social media and other online platforms
- As the contact person, our large community will entrust you with their inquiries via mail or messages on our Nest
- You are the important link between the testers and other departments (Project Management, Sales, Development) and you will help the team define the feasibility of projects
- All your great ideas about communication can be put into effect and you have the opportunity to take the lead on projects and help develop processes

Your Qualification

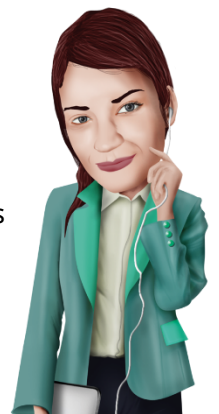

- You have a university degree with a focus on Media/Communications or similar
- First experiences in a customer support centered environment or community management are appreciated
- A passion for writing and communication will enable you to engage and entertain the community
- Great communication skills and being able to adapt to other people's perspective allow you to offer support and find solutions to our Birds' problems
- You speak English at a native level or German at a native level with fluency in English

You get extra points if:

- You have an affinity for mobile websites and apps
- You want to work with Social Media and Gamification
- You have a talent for foreign languages

We are offering

- A permanent position based in the heart of Munich near the Theresienwiese
- Flat hierarchy: you are responsible for your work and you can implement your own ideas
- Development possibilities through a variety of internal and external training opportunities
- An open culture, uncomplicated togetherness and joy of shared successes
- A great work atmosphere with a lot of team activities, football tournaments, weekly breakfasts and all the coffee/soft drinks you can drink
