

WANTED:

USER EXPERIENCE Project Manager (UK) based in Amsterdam (F/M)

The early bird... starts working for Testbirds!

Since 2011 Testbirds has been a pioneer in the testing of apps, web applications, smart home and Internet of Things applications. With the support of 100 employees and 300,000 testers globally, we are successfully conquering this rapidly growing international market. Having recently launched an international office in Amsterdam, we are now searching for talented and ambitious colleagues to focus on the UK or Dutch market. If you seek an exciting role in a fun start-up environment, this is definitely the job for you!

Your Role

Whilst our crowd testers do the testing, you will be responsible for making our User Experience and Usability projects for the UK market a success:

- You will be working with large International blue chip companies
- As a testing expert, you will develop and coordinate the test set-up for Usability and UX studies
- You will gain inside knowledge of many apps and websites, all at different development stages
- You will keep our clients updated on a range of ongoing projects, ensuring projects are delivered on time and within budget
- You will be the contact person for testers and will be responsible for maintaining high quality standards during tests
- You will evaluate and report results of the test cycle to your clients

You Bring

- A successfully completed undergraduate degree
- Work experience in the UK market gave you a solid understanding of the business markets, culture and ethics in the UK
- Experience in the field of QA / UX – you know exactly what good Usability means
- Solid experience in qualitative research methods, making it easy for you to design user studies
- A true understanding that excellent user interfaces support both users and our clients, boosting their business success
- Advanced Microsoft Office skills, especially in Word, Excel and Power Point
- You're speaking either of the following languages at a native level: English, French or Spanish, additional European languages are a plus

We are offering

- A permanent, full-time position at our office in the heart of Amsterdam, only 10 minutes from Central Station - alongside an induction training in Munich
- Flat hierarchy: you are responsible for your work and you can implement your own ideas
- Development possibilities through a variety of internal and external training opportunities
- An open culture, uncomplicated togetherness and joy of shared success
- A fantastic working atmosphere with many team activities e. g. bi-annual workshops at our Munich HQ, free lunch, all the coffee you can drink and after-work drinks
